

A Place of Belonging ~ An Adoption Support Group for Teen Girls

Teen girls have a myriad of challenges in our world today. Adoption adds an additional layer to the task of identity development, a critical time when girls are developing a deeper sense of themselves (i.e., their values and beliefs) and are exploring themselves and their roles in the world.

Here teens will share a safe space to

- Meet and connect with other adopted teen girls
- Share common experiences of how adoption plays out in their lives
- Address losses associated with adoption — of birth family, culture, etc.
- Explore tough feelings often activated in adoptees during the teen years

This group is for...

- Adopted girls approximately ages 14-17 who are interested in being part of an adoption teen group
- Discussion and topics will be semi-structured based upon the needs and desires of group members
- Groups will involve small membership of 4-5 girls and may be developed into age and/or type of adoption (at birth, foster, international/transracial) if there are sufficient numbers
- This is an in-person group located at the address listed below

How to proceed if you are interested...

- If you are not an existing client, contact me for a 20 minute intake to determine goodness of fit. If the group is not well matched to your teen's needs there is no charge for this intake appointment
- A commitment of attending all sessions is encouraged to allow the group to build trust and cohesion. After our 8 sessions are finished, this group may continue on a monthly basis if there is interest
- The best and quickest way to reach me is through email at: zuckphd@gmail.com
